Haircut 100, Surprise Me Again

Well I remember the day when she said go away I rearrange my hair Well I can't take anymore I bought some natural food And then I fell on the floor Well I can't take anymore I need a change of address By the way, why can't you smile She said at first it was great And in the middle I stayed But at the end I was sick I said I've got to get out quick Then you suddenly smiled You took me by surprise You suddenly smiled You took me by again Well I remember the time Wrapped up nice and cosy She was washing my hair Well I was thinking of midnight, falling in love Watching the rain fall When we relax I'm going to sleep on your chest And listen to your beats And let's go to Norway, live in rain and snow And get totally depressed about nothing At all really hello Then you suddenly smiled You took me by surprise You suddenly smiled You took me by again You suddenly smiled You suddenly smiled, again and again You can't smile Then you suddenly smiled You took me by surprise You suddenly smiled You took me by again You suddenly smiled You suddenly smiled You suddenly smiled You suddenly smiled You took me by again
