

Halou, Asleep And Dreaming

I love to watch you when you sleep
What are you dreaming of
With your face pressed in the sheets
You're so beautiful

If i died right now
And could come back as anyone
You know i'd pick you
So i could be as wonderful

I know you're asleep
I hope you can hear me
Carry this with you
Wherever you go
I love you

The stars are shifting in their seats
Soon the alarm will sound
And we'll go our separate ways
To the opposite ends of town
It doesn't seem right
That people who are in love
Should spend all their time
So very far away

All those waking hours
In separate buildings
On opposite ends of town
It's killing me
If i never see the face
Of that stupid sun again
You know that i won't care

You're an angel when you sleep
And you're finally still
Your lashes rest on your cheek
Like the moon on the windowsill
If i died right now
And could give my soul to anyone
You know i'd pick you
We must be on to something
