Halou, Crushed Out

I won't let you bother me You'll never know what i am thinking I won't get angry because I cannot feel anything

My patience has been tried Too many times beyond my counting Now you yell at me I cannot hear you anymore

I will take care of things With all of what i am I cannot gaurantee I'll do as well again

Ever since this started
Anger has become my mother
Superego has died
Because she has taken over
My body hums from inside
I don't know what i am doing
I must control my hands
So that you can continue breathing