

Halou, Heroine

It's just like you to change
Just when i got used to things
So that every word i say
Gets turned around
And thrown in my face

I held onto the words that you said
Like they were of my own flesh
How much was truth and were lies
I may never know will i

And i will never follow you
Though i may look up to you
And i take my breath from you
These are the signs of life

It's just like you to say
Luck has not been convenient
And she should change her schedule
And pen me in for a week or two
But old lady luck never did
She hung you out to dry
You're my heroine
I won't go down with you, will i
