

Halou, Loop In Blue

Must be something important
To make your eyes this wide
Must be something enormous
You're all alone, who can you trust
And we see sweat gather on your brow
Makes you cynical
And we see your eyes are getting dark
Must be something important

And i know we don't know
What's on your mind
But we know you'll make it through
And though things may seem
Much larger than life
At least you know we're behind you

Must be something important
We must admit we're curious
Must be something that's urgent
I advise you confide in one of us
And we see your heart is tied in knots
We want to help you out
And we see your not feeling quite yourself
Must be something important
