

Hangnail, In Conclusion

We beat the odds, we weren't alone Could have things gone better had we never made the choice to try at all Forget all our mistakes
When you're starting from the bottom there's no way to know if you might change the world

They say that destiny is just ahead
Well I'm not waiting
So if this all gets better in the end What are we waiting for

How much difference does it make We're useless
when everything we do is done in vain That won't happen anymore cause I refuse to support anything that carries many faces

Always waiting for a resolution to arrive
How much longer can you wait until you break the ties

I want to see you do well
I will see you farewell