

Hangnail, Transparent

When you strip away the outside layer don't act so surprised There might be a face that you don't even recognize
Don't act so surprised We're living shallow lives and the consequence is never knowing who we really are

We've nothing left to hide, transparent lives
There's no disguise, transparent lives
What you see is what you get It's not forged or counterfeit

No foul motives harbor here It's strictly the sincere unafraid to be exposed Can see right through the soul
You know you don't have need for a show

I've found the conflict of all history
It's desire verses rationality It's not as complex as it seems to be Cause when you're fighting yourself there's no way you can win

I don't want to imitate or try to duplicate a different personality I'm trying to comprehend the point of fitting in It's such a tragic fallacy