Hank Snow, Cure For The Blues

I've got a sort of lowdown feeling a sickness that is hard to describe It ain't no use to call a doctor cause the cure I know he couldn't prescribe Day by day I'm gradually failin' guess it's just a matter of time It's started in my mind and infected my heart Baby when you said goodbye

[piano]

I thought that I was slowly improvin' when the tears began to dry Then I passed you on the corner and it took the rainbow out of my sky So baby won't you hear my pleadin' your love would really pull me through It would heal my troubled mind leave these heartaches behind Cause you're the only cure for the blues

[guitar]

İ štrolled beside that muddy Mississippi and as the evening sun sank low That naggin' deep inside said jump boy but the longin' in my heart said no I guess that I'll continue on a walking and maybe Lady Luck will come through Then contentment I will find in my troublesome mind

Cause baby you're the cure for the blues
