

Hank Snow, Moanin'

Moanin' my life slowly away
Sittin' here waitin' for the new comin' day
They try to cheer me as I trudge on my way
Moanin' for you

Can't seem to hide it and why should I try
Good Lord he knows it up there in the sky
A million heartaches with your last goodbye
Left me moanin' for you

Work these poor fingers on down to the bone
When things seemed right my whole world went wrong
Since I found your letter baby sayin' so long
I've been moanin' for you

Break (steel guitar)

They find me alone at the close of the day
Counting each petal from your old bouquet
Guess I'll be here 'til eternity
Moanin' for you

This old rocking chair I have rocked it apart
The last spark of flame on my fireplace is dark
But this old flame that's burning deep down in my heart
Keeps me moanin' for you

Work these poor fingers on down to the bone
When things seemed right my whole world went wrong
Since I found your letter baby sayin' so long
I've been moanin' for you
