

Hank Snow, Star Spangled Waltz

The band it was playing the Star Spangled Waltz
The lights in the ballroom were low
Oh twas sweet to my ears I fought back my tears
For that waltz broke my heart long ago

My sweetheart grew jealous as I danced with a friend
And said that my love had grown false
Then she told me goodbye neath that old southern sky
As we danced to the Star Spangled Waltz
[fiddle - steel]
Then a face caught my eye as the dancers passed by
It was my sweetheart who left me to pine
As she whispered my name I could see oh so plain
That her heart it was broken like mine

Love had one it's last fight as I kissed her that night
As I did in the days long ago
We had found new romance though we cried as we danced
To the beautiful Star Spangled Waltz
