

Hank The Knife & The Jets, Stan The Gunman

He's gonna come at night
'till the morning's light
He's gonna turn the upside down He's gonna steel the show to let the people know That he's the number one in town
So if you feel the fear when his men appear It's better that you stay away another day yeah
And like a movie star in his super car
He's gonna make a big entree
He's winning ev'ry game so isn't it a shame
That ev'ryone around will say:
It's alright and don't you start a fight
Because he's Stan the gunman better run and hide

He's killing any man to make you understand That he's the very dangerous one and only
Stan the gunman
Stan the gunman.
But then the other day
he couldn't get away Policemen all around the place his apes were far way
But Stan was there to play he lost his game and pokerface
He tried to draw his gun because he couldn't run But Stan he knew: "This is the day I'll have to pay yeah"
A shot that didn't fail did put 'em into jail
But there's another Stan today who's winning ev'ry game
So isn't it a shame that ev'ryone around will say:
It's alright and don't you start a fight . . .