

Hank Williams Jr., Day Dreams

When we first met I had a funny feeling
That there was something very special about you
I've had a dream girl pictured in my mind and when I saw you my dreams came true
Now instead of day dreams my life's filled with love scenes
And I used to hate the night but now you may get all right
Your sweet softness keeps me so satisfied
And you turn day dreams into the real thing this time
[guitar - steel]
You've been walking through my dreams but now you're in my arms
And it's the real thing kissing warm lips and tasting all your charms
Now there's the beating of your heart pressed close to mine
And you turn day dreams into the real thing this time this time
