

Hank Williams Jr., For Me There Is No Place

You have always wanted the finest things in life
So that all your dreams could come true I've slaved with all my might
But the plans I made for you and me have all gone to waste
Cause in the world you live now for me there is no place
Gone is the sweet and simple girl that I have loved so long
And in her place a stranger lives who wants a dream world and not a home
With the sunrise I'll be gone and then daring you'll be free
Free to live the life you want and never be bothered by me
For I am just a simple guy who couldn't keep up with the pace
Cause in the world you live now for me there is no place
And in the world you live now for me there is no place
