

Hank Williams Jr., So Easy To Forgive Her (So H

I lay in darkness in our room and shed an unseen tear
I try to solve without a sound I don't want her to hear
She's home again that's all that really matters I'll admit
It's so easy to forgive her but so hard to forget
To love her so not let her go oh I must bein' saint
While in her sleep she held my hand and called another's name
I try hard to solve life's puzzle but old memories won't fit
It's so easy to forgive her but so hard to forget
[ piano ]
I try to walk away from her but my heart always slips
And I long to hold her though his kiss is fresh upon her lips
I love her so my heart says that her hurting me will quit
It's so easy to forgive her but so hard to forget
It's so easy to forgive her but it's so hard to forget
