

Hank Williams, Too soon to think of love again

Love without devotion is just loneliness in motion just the way to pass away some timeA fire without