

Hanson, Write You A Song

I see blue skies, sunrise,
Dandelions and conversations
Chasing butterflies through the garden
You were barefoot in the living room
Dancing round you were always cutting loose
All of those memories are etched in my mind

So I'm gonna write you a song
Something sweet that you can hum along to
For when the night gets long
So you've got me there to remind you
Of all of our good times
And the beautiful light you shine
That is why I'm gonna write you a song
So you'll never be lonely

You're my Oklahoma daisy
And the sparkle in your eye it saves me
From life's tribulations and trials
I hear choirs of angels singing
Every time you call my name
The kingdom of heaven is in your smile

Oh, so I'm gonna write you a song
Something sweet that you can hum along to
For when the night gets long
So you've got me there to remind you
Of all of our good times
And the beautiful light you shine
That is why I'm gonna write you a song
So you'll never be lonely

Never be lonely
So you'll never be lonely

I'm gonna write you a lullaby
Hush baby don't cry
So that when I'm gone you can sing along
I'm gonna write you
I'm gonna write you a song
So you'll never be lonely
So you'll never be lonely

Never be lonely
I'm gonna write you a song
So you'll never be lonely
So you'll never be lonely
So you'll never be lonely

I'm gonna write you a song
I'm gonna write you a song
So you'll never be lonely
