

Hard Rain, Shame For The Bad Boy

Now you found that open doorway
Everyone could see a wall
Well, you should've listened to yourself
When you knew you'd got it all
There's a shadow at the roadside
Still waiting for you there, yeah, yeah

Well, it's everybody's daydream
But the nightmare always comes
Well, you got your invitation young
Didn't walk, you had to run
One day looks like sunshine
Next day there'll be rain, yeah, yeah

You're a shooting star in electric skies
And your scarlet tears in a young girls eyes

Well, it's a shame for the bad boy
Shame for the bad boy
Read in the news, going to drive all night
Never see the morning light
It's a shame for the bad boy

Got a look of sweet perfection
Mirrored in your face
Pictures of a worried man
You were always out of place
Pushed it to the limit
Didn't seem to care, yeah, yeah

Doing eighty-five in the westbound lane
Five fifty-nine, will never be the same

Well, it's a shame for the bad boy
Shame for the bad boy
Now you're going to shine, burn so bright
Now you're going to lose your life
It's a shame for the bad boy

You're a shooting star in electric skies
And your scarlet tears in a young girls eyes

Well, it's a shame for the bad boy
Shame for the bad boy
Now you're going to shine, burn so bright
Now you're going to lose your life
It's a shame for the bad boy

Well, it's a shame for the bad boy
Shame for the bad boy
Read in the news, going to drive all night
Never see the morning light
It's a shame for the bad boy
