

Harmful, Open End

You got to read all the lines Can't ignore your disguise Better pull out the source tonight

You can't disorder the real... penetrate the ordeal... there's no one left to cry

I really don't want to know how this story's going to end I really don't want to move back and start a

You got to see all the signs Steady backwards collides You kneel for the dimes tonight

What I see is unreal... a perfect moment to steal... now it is you to decide

I really don't want to know how this story's going to end I really don't want to move back and start a