

Harvey Danger, Incommunicado

I wish the words would fail me just for once (just once)
Keep incommunicado (don't say a word)
Look for the present tense and come to my senses (come pick me up)
Just like a despera-a-ado

We talked for twenty minutes
By the time the party ended, you'd forgotten, oh
(I was never good with names)
And I'm still thinking about it five years later

You spoke an unfamiliar dialect (comme ca?)
Two and a half months over
Next think I knew someone had called for the check (check please)
And you were gone before we turned it over

I dreamed we were alone all night
In a house made out of beds
And nothing happened (you call that a dream?)

I think about it every time I see you (me too)
That's when I try to remember
There were never any terms we could agree to, no no

Now can I please have a moment of your time?
(Can I please have a moment of your time?)
Before I have the strength to change my mind
