

Harvey Danger, Wrecking Ball

Tear down the bearing wall put up a picture window Something to look through at the bastard colors burnt sienna

Put down the wrecking ball
Who has a friend, who needs one?
I've got a way to get to work in almost any city doesn't matter where Take a needle, I won't be there privileges forsaken there liberties I've taken take me nowhere

Put down the wrecking ball
don't let a childhood linger They'll take the world apart and break my baby brother's finger so he can't shake my hand Guard the dead against my legacy and lack the wound no more

Run from nowhere, nowhere follows you

Burn down the house make sure the family is inside Nothing more to tether you also no one there to catch you crying Nothing but my famous pillow and my father's rocking chair (get a sliver when you sit there) Every mess I make I make a run from nowhere nowhere follows you
nowhere follows you
nowhere follows you...
