

Hatfield & The North, Licks For The Ladies

Now it's time to finish your wine
try to sing a sober song after all that din.
And even though we may be having quite a laugh,
bashing bass and drums is really rather daft
compared to harmonies although they may sound twee, they're really what my lady friend can relate to
and her mate too...

Just in case you think it's a waste
in the end, choosing notes to see if they make friends.
A D# minor flattened 5th will go to C,
dotted crotchets usually divide by three.

We don't really know now exactly what we mean,
still we had the gist of it till the chords changed...
...unexpectedly...

An interesting thought came over me:
I'd feel better somewhat wetter, drinking tea in the sea,
and dream of you and your nice black knickers...