

Hawkwind, Days Of The Underground

In visions of acid we saw through delusion and brainbox pollution, we knew we were right The streets were our oyster, we smoked urban poison and we turned all this noise on, we knew how to fight We dropped out and tuned in, we spoke secret jargon and we would not bargain for what We had found in the days of the underground

We believed in Guevera, we saw that head held up and our anger welled up but we kept it cool No need for machine guns 'cause the system was crumbling, our leaders were fumbling While we broke every rule We saw them on T.V. they'd blown their cover and we tried to smother their voices With sound,
in the days of the underground

Whatever happened to those chromium heroes, are there none of them still left around, since The days of the underground?

Now we can look back at the heroes we were then,
we made quite a stir then with our sonic attack, street-fighting dancers, the assassins of silence, with make-believe violence on a hundred watt stack They offered us contracts, we said "we don't need 'em", we'll just take our freedom and will not be bound
in the days of the underground.

And some of us made it but not smiling Michael His black motorcycle got eaten by rust
And John the Bog dreamt that he slept at the wheel
But when he woke it was real, too late to have sussed
And Jeff was a poet who wrote with a spray can on walls Saying "Hey man, I believe that we've drowned"
In the days of the underground
