Heart, Too Long A Time

Momma says she doesnt want me hangn around. Whatever you do now, dont let momma know. I slip out in the darkness, in the frosty moonlight, Fly across the silver morning meadow.

Candle in the window, Shadow on the shade, I know my love lies waitin inside. Close the door now, Have a taste of wine. Lord its been too long a time. Oh, yes it has.

Way down in the passing love, Feels so young and fine. Wrap your love around me, The wind is high. Every minute passing, I want to hold you. Every minute comes too long a time Too long a time Too long a time.
