

Heartless Bastards, Had To Go

oh there was silence thinly veiled peace then oh the lightening struck and it started a fire oh we lost all patience things they kept on turning When they take the bark off the tree it's standing stark

Lately I'm feeling so alone
I packed up my bags and I left my home and now everything's changed and I'm feeling alone
I got no one to blame cause I had to go

And it started raining and there was a flood the water kept on rising higher we had to get above I come to you open, organs on my sleeve Won't you help me now Help me find peace

Lately I'm feeling so alone
I packed up my bags and I left my home
and now everything's changed and I'm feeling alone
I got no one to blame cause I had to go
