

Heavy Trevy, Don't Complain

Girls always try to impress everyone as they come their way They all want to believe that the boys will change if they like what they see Girls try and like to think that...

Everyone tries to be like them
and everyone wants to be the same so why don't they just wise up to the truth and don't complain and complain Every girl wants to have it all
Every girl needs to have some fame
But why don't they just shut their pretty mouths
and don't complain and don't complain

Girls always want to take everything as they come their way They won't admit it but the games that they play underline who they really are

They'll take and I'll crawl another hundred miles for their kiss, for their touch, for their breath, for their love and what I don't understand, is when they're board they leave a man Girls think that'

Everyone tries to be like them
and everyone wants to be the same
so why don't they just wise up to the truth
and don't complain and complain
Every girl wants to have it all
Every girl needs to have some fame
But why don't they just shut their pretty mouths
and don't complain and don't complain

What do you want? (Yeah, yeah yeah)
