Hell Is For Heroes, My Protector

Youve been keeping your distance Infected as I am III come wounded and careless Crawling back to you Crumbling down under spotlights For I am weak like you Scent of placenta Were heading back to the source

The houselights fade out A perfect warm death The worms have crawled in And made us who we are

Radio out Dancing to a silent tune Stand up and shout For all we are is innocent Turn the lights out This could be the final hour And were on time

I see hundreds of faces Staring back at me An armory of human shields To protect me from the truth The truth as I never told it For Im a liar like you Nothing quite like a transplant To erase the past

Tie your blindfold This could be the final hour And we all count.
