

Hella, The Things That People Do When They Th

Burning bridges never felt so right
We watch the night embrace our hexes light
Hesitation won't exceed these wishes
The stone, the sling, our stadiums in stitches
If the stars were black and skies were white
We'd still will these flames upon this sight
To the moon our skulls are tightly bound
We with no intention to come down

The day they proved the earth was round
Was the day they flattened holy ground
The sea it sang an orphaned sound
"The earth is flat it is not round!"
(It's upside down)

Everybody's trying to be borderline
Don't you know that mystery will never be defined?
I wouldn't trade my rags for riches
Pursuit for power doesn't faze a mystic
To the moon our skulls are tightly bound
We with no intention to come down

The day they proved the earth was round
Was the day they flattened holy ground
The sea it sang an orphaned sound
"The earth is flat it is not round!"
(It's upside down)

Days are pending you're pretending
That your life is never ending
These back handed compliments of nature
Have us on the fence
I don't think you really know where you're going
We can't escape what captivates us now
Laughter is gonna keep us alive
Sabotage is gonna make us into kings and queens

The things that people do when they think no one's looking

When you're (sic) beginning has no end
You witness all the things that never happened

Money doesn't make the world go 'round
It's in the center of the universe we should drown
Your eyesight will be tainted by control
Unmask yourself prepare to fall into giant hands
And know freedom

The day they proved the earth was round
Was the day they flattened holy ground
The sea it sang an orphaned sound
"The earth is flat it is not round!"
