

Henry Moodie, right person, wrong time i heard that you're back in town for the holidays at your parents house the last time that we spoke, was 3 years ago but sometimes i still think about sneaking out the window when we were more than friends what if one day we start again?

i don't know why
but i still believe in you & i (you & i)
and i don't know how but i hope that one day you'll come back around (back around) and you'll say every road i ever i take leads to you it's all the same you're the one that got away
i don't know why
but i still believe our stars will align i'm just the right person wrong time sometimes when i close my eyes i picture us in 20 years time where it all worked out, we bought a house and settled down i know we could do it if we tried tried to grow a little wiser learn from our mistakes i can't help but wanna say
i don't know why
but i still believe in you & i (you & i)
and i don't know how
but i hope that one day you'll come back around (back around) and you'll say
every road i ever i take leads back to you it's all the same you're the one that got away
i don't know why
but i still believe our stars will align
i'm just the right person wrong time london late nights weekends strobe lights ohh i miss those memories, good times london city late nights tipsy all these memories never leave me my friends your place young dumb mistakes all these memories i wish we'd still make