

Heroes Get Remembered, Mother of Men

I woke up just to realize, that I'm far away from home
Never really asked myself do I want or need this job
Maybe, if you see my friend she can tell you from above
I'm just an ugly silhouette of the man that she used to love

Cause I've never felt so strange, never felt so down
There is no tomorrow
I found new life in an empty box, in a comfort zone

Lady would you take me away from the street that never sleeps
Thing that helps me feel strong within makes me look here pretty weak
I promise not to save the world, cause I know it will collapse
All we do is run into the place, where we began.
