

High Hopes, Fade

everything's calm all around i'll call and get no answer there's no need to say sorry and no reasons to worry and it fades, it fades tomorrow's sun awakes to dissolve these shadows of the past waiting its time to rise high to make your smile shine again walking along with another hand, leave it or roll i went to face the unreal, to cross your road these rain's fields evaporated, out of my mould it will take time to forget, this call grows the rain stopped long ago the last candle dies out electricity lights bright and you stop to wonder why it fades, it fades

And all these faces, these figures i've known, requiems of love flowing through my senses We watched some stars none would ever reach We watched their eyes but the paint faded slowly And all my attentions, my trust in you How long will i wait, whatever the clouds Remembering this "hello", and the way she blushed Leaving for today, my illusions away walking along with another hand, leave or roll

i went to face the unreal, to cross your road these rain's fields evaporated, to exit my mould oh it takes time to forget, this call grows the time we got

the time we left
this shooting star that never shines
the time we got
the time we left
this guiding star will never shines the time i got the time i left and this shooting star that never shines the time i lost
the time we left
'never got enough of you to stay now it fades