

Hissyfits, Something Wrong

He said you look so pretty in this light it hurts my eyes I said you are so sweet sometimes it almost makes me cry

Why does it seem like when I've finally found my Mr. Right Something inside of me, it frightens me, I say goodbye?

There must be something wrong with me
There must be something wrong with me

He was the perfect kisser, perfect lover, perfect friend But time has taught me all good things come to a bitter end

I try to fight it, but it's no use, I must be insane
The little voice inside my head says "here you go again" (goodbye)

And now I'm spinning around and around and around and around...