

Hitchcock Robyn, Do Policemen Sing?

Oh do policemen sing? I heard a person cry
We can do anything I heard the force reply Oh do policemen sing? Yes when they're in the mood
And when their truncheons swing That's when they're in the
It's true because I never argue with a rozzar Never show him insolence, confidence 'Cos who supplies the evidence it's not your mother or your lover or your best friends dog Oh do policemen dream? Yes when they're fast asleep
And when policemen dream It proves they're fast
asleep
Oh do policemen sing? Yes if they've got the time
And when they sing for you? Just tell them they're sublime
Don't get stymied, don't say bloody hell or blimey Don't complain if your beans aren't warm Oh do policemen sing? Oh yes extremely well Haven't you heard the Welsh? They really do excel
And are policeman gay? Depends on what you mean They are not lewd or queer But they all dig the queen Open ended, 'specially when you're apprehended, taken in and...
Our law and order's never, never, never, never, never gonna
break down
Our law and order's never, never, never, never, never gonna
break down
Our law and order's never, never, never, never, never, never gonna break down
