

Hitchcock Robyn, Raining Twilight Coast

i'm on a raining twilight coast sending out postcards to the one i love and the rain falls, up from the ground no one sees it, 'cos there's no one around just one thing baby, you forgot my heart
just one thing baby, you forgot my heart and i remember when i was young, they said, "work hard," and i said "certainly, 'cos it's fun" and so i tried it, i did what i could made no difference, it never did any good
just one thing baby, you forgot my heart
'cos i'm a fish baby, with a shimmering skin and i find an opening, and slide right in the sea is my mother, pea green and wild there's so many ways, you can screw up a child
