

Hoffsten Louise, Let The Best Man Win

[L. Hoffsten/L. Larson]

Dazzling colours came from the screen

I looked at the world like through vaseline in the state of great confusion

I came to the conclusion:

Let the best man win, it's the chance of your life

Let the game begin

Start rollin' the dice

and let the best man win, it'll give you, give you all that life can bring

Let's roll and let the best man win!

A man with a slick face explained the rules:

Gold, cars and TV-sets are all approved

He'll take your life as admission give new, through television

Let the best man win, it's the chance of your life

Let the game begin

Start rollin' the dice

and let the best man win, it'll give you, give you all that life can bring

Let's roll and let the best man win! Spend all your money to succeed winning things you don't need to bring it back to mother earth

She doesn't care who you are

If your meals are bones and caviar

You've always got a place reserved