

Hollywood Undead, Salvation

Are you looking to sell your salvation?
Only offering lies for the day that you die

Sell another lie - a trip into the pretty sky
A place to lay our heads before the day we know we'll die
Tell me what's the difference within hell and the divine
Holding onto memories, that used to be my life

(I can't seem to forget) the halo that I used to see
(Hanging overhead) of people dying in their dreams
(Reliving a regret) the angel that I'll never be
(The vow you never kept)

Are you looking to sell your salvation?
Only offering lies for the day that you die
Do they know when you smile that you're faking?
When they look in your eyes, do they see your disguise?

We all search for answers for the things we cannot change
Another panacea to alleviate the pain
You're holding on to ghosts, cause we wish we were the same
Floating high above with the body in the grave

(I can't seem to forget) the halo that I used to see
(Hanging overhead) of people dying in their dreams
(Reliving the regret) the angel that I'll never be
(The vow you never kept)

Are you looking to sell your salvation?
Only offering lies for the day that you die
Do they know when you smile that you're faking?
When they look in your eyes, do they see your disguise?

They'll take your soul as they say goodbye
But you'll never know 'til the day you die
The only ones who can save your life
And make you feel safe as you take the knife

God I can only imagine
Gone is the ground that I'm standing on
Heaven is too hard to fathom
Am I praying to phantoms now

Are you looking to sell your salvation?
Only offering lies for the day that you die
Do they know when you smile that you're faking?
When they look in your eyes, do they see your disguise?
Are you looking to sell your salvation?
Only offering lies for the day that you die
Do they know when you smile that you're faking?
When they look in your eyes, do they see your disguise?