Honeycut, Dysfunctional

Dysfunctional is where we're at we missed the call love was the wrong format

Directional is what we're not we trip we fall we can't make out the blood

Sensational was one of them but down the hall I lost the guards you left

Intentional was not the case hard is the wall pressing against my face

Mechanical
Is what we say you take my coat
but I can see it's not OK
But believe me sweetheart we can put it back together

Can you sing me to sleep and will I sleep to dream of a time when we weren't torn at the seams I was your lover and I was your friend can we put it back together again, together again

Put it back together

Put it back together, back together

Put it back together
