

Hot Water Music, Alachua

Words of war, they don't mean shit
If the war's for nothing.

I'll wait for now, so show me how
This all works,
'cause all these things just seem empty
And that's what hurts.

Chuck's chorus:
So I can't help but to question
What was real or what was concealed.
Did you need to abandon
And change face?

Jason's chorus:
If you started today would you miss it?
'cause we've been blind.
I don't want to believe
That the truth is lost so easily.

Was it a mistake taken the wrong way?
Through our worst days.
Or did loyalty not mean a goddamn thing
In the ending?

So I can't help but to question
What was real or what was concealed.
Though trial and error
Did take place, did you need to change face?
And abandon what was/is real
Or what we felt. Pulled heavy weight.
What grounded us, what astounded me.
Was it all for nothing?

If you started today would you miss it?
'cause we've been blind.
And I don't want to believe
That the truth is lost so easily.
If you started today would you miss it?
'cause we've been blind.
And I don't want to believe
That the truth is lost so easily.
