

Hours Eastly, Don't You Go

The air's become heavy
The tension is tight
Oh, I know his hands can't touch you like mine

Sometimes the weight proves too much to carry
Sometimes I can't even sleep at night
Sometimes my room is so solitary
Sometimes it hurts on the inside
It's just a minor break in my heart
And she said, "Lover don't leave me now, no...please, oh please don't go."
Please don't go

It's just an ache from my head down
It only hurts when you're not around
Don't leave me now
Don't you go
Please don't go

Your eyes give you away
I still make them shine
And I know his arms don't Hold you like mine

Sometimes the weight proves too much to carry
Sometimes I can't even sleep at night
Sometimes my room is so solitary
Sometimes it hurts on the inside
It's just a minor break in my heart
And she said, "Lover don't leave me now, no...please, oh please don't go."
Please don't go

It's just an ache from my head down
It only hurts when you're not around
No need to call for my doctor now
It only hurts when you're not around
Don't leave me now
Don't you go
Please don't
