

Hugh Cornwell, Love In Your Eyes

My vision's getting better now a perspective at last
There's dawn upon the horizon the sun is rising fast
I feel your presence everywhere there's magic in the air
Maybe other people have your time but I don't care
Cos when we scintillate the sparks begin to fly
And then it escalates the ground goes flying by then
I find I find I find I find love in your eyes
This modern world is cheap enough
I won't make it cheaper still
Temptation hasn't got a chance with me it's lost its thrill
Your jewelries hidden out of reach the rest they know it's there
They wish they'd hung on to their dreams like you have it's so rare
Cos when we scintillate the sparks begin to fly
And then it escalates the ground goes flying by then
I find I find I find I find love in your eyes