

Hugh X. Lewis, I'm Losing You

I was born the day I found you and I'll die the day I'll lose you
And lately I'm not feeling very well
Oh it's not the fear of dying but of the nights that I'll spend crying
Cause I'm losing you to someone I can't tell
I can't tell by the way your lips kiss me so lightly
By the way your arms no longer hold me tightly
So if I linger when I kiss you I guess I already miss you
So don't pretend to me that all is well
There's a heartbreak in the making and my heart's already breaking
Cause I'm losing you to someone I can't tell
There's a heartbreak...
(I can't tell I can't tell)