

Hundred Inch Shadow, rise and fall everything i've learned was absolutely nothing when i started my adult life i was not prepared to live in such a boring world where money is the only goal i don't know how can i resist

once i rise, then i fall my salad days are gone dull job and duties
i can't stand it anymore
i've got a key but there's no door and no one to help my now i'm on my own

we cannot value things we have appreciations comes too late

childhood memories i've realised those were the best days of my life i still remember time i've spent on football fields without responsibility i'd really like to turn back time

i don't want to be grown-up
i want to turn back time
