Hungry Lucy, A Girl Alone

In the cold November sky I saw my past trailing by illusions sent me astray my chances gone I lost you in the dark I lost your beating heart I lost you to the years I lost you through my tears so often I cry for you do you cry for me too? As the snow begins to fall darkness traps me in her walls longing to see your face dare I imagine Did you know my name my face a withered frame I'm not what you have known you're a girl alone