

Hurricane #1, Chain Reaction

I came in like a loser, and laid my burden down the whole world's on my shoulders and my head just spinning round in the dream i don't remember it sends pictures to my head an empty voice is echoing round that dried up riverbed Cos when the world stops falling you can't get shelter from the storm and you feel like you're nothing and your cash won't keep you warm it's a chain reaction you should know by now
Will you break your chains just for me?
I saw my baby running from the arms in my mind I told her little sister you can't leave me behind I saw my baby crying, I said baby please don't cry i know our life is crashing down but we can't reason why cos when the world starts falling you can't get shelter from the storm
and you feel like you're nothing
and your cash won't keep you warm
It's a chain reaction
you should know by now
would you break your chains just for me?
it's a chain reaction