Hurts, Exile (2013)

Darling what?s your name
And can you hear me?
Tell me why you?re out so late alone
The diamonds sparkle in your face I hold you
The gravel glistens black and red below

Hallow, you drift into the night Hallow, girl

When I close my eyes I see you When I close my eyes you?re here In the dead of the night I feel you When I open my eyes you disappear

The metal wraps itself around your bones And when it penetrates you it feels cold As you were born you leave this world alone A stranger on an unfamiliar road

That roaring engine sings you: "Hallelujah The broken headlamp lights your path to God"

Hallow, you drift into the light Hallow, go home But when I close my eyes I see you When I close my eyes you?re here In the dead of the night I feel you When I open my eyes you disappear