I Blame Coco, Self Machine

I saw the mirror starin' back at me And it told me I'm a self machine I saw the mirror starin' back at me And it told me I'm a self machine

It said I gave you these scars And I gave you these wounds I told you the false And I showed you the truth

I saw the mirror staring back at me And it told me I'm a self machine

Lonely robot in a wasteland rusting in a lonely harbor Lonely robot in a wasteland rusting in the harbor's water

I'm not a human if you say I'm not I'm not a human if my hinges lock And this motor that you call my heart Is another machine that will stop

And the impression of my self machine The word was spoken and it was foreseen Now we're too well too bothered in between A pixel lost on a computer screen

Lonely robot in a wasteland Rusting in a lonely harbor Lonely robot in a wasteland Rusting in the harbor's water

I'm not a human if you say I'm not I'm not a human if my hinges lock And this motor that you call my heart Is another machine that won't stop

Wait harbor, wait Water still, water still And shake, the ground will shake Out stand still, out stand still

Lonely robot in a wasteland Rusting in a lonely harbor Lonely robot in a wasteland Rusting in the harbor's water

I'm not a human if you say I'm not I'm not a human if my hinges lock And this motor that you call my heart Is another machine that won't stop Won't stoooooop

I'm not a human if you say I'm not I'm not a human if my hinges lock And this motor that you call my heart Is another machine that won't stop
