Ian Brown, Golden Gaze

Through the haze of the smoke in the room I caught your golden gaze I knew there were better days With the rays of the sun through the roof I caught your golden gaze Knew there were better days Your golden gaze Golden gaze your golden gaze Your golden gaze Star spangled shades shade your eyes But could never hide your golden gaze Your golden gaze Red summer skies bright your smile And could never hide your golden gaze Your golden gaze In the dawn of the morning rain I caught your golden gaze Golden days Your golden gaze Through the haze of the smoke in the room I caught your golden gaze I knew there were better days Your golden gaze Your golden gaze