

Idlewild, The space between all things

All the walls of your house, were painted in deep blue, you're at that indecisive age to choose colour