Imagine Dragons, Second Chances older than water stubborn as stone there'll be no forgiveness for all that you've known oh these days oh these days get heavy hotter than friction subtle as sound there'll be no forgiveness for you to come around

oh these days oh these days get heavy

I get older and life fades but you remain open up again I believe in second chances please let me in oh I believe in second chances I won't break you I will not let you down open up again I believe in second chances

quicker than lightning whiter than bone if you can erase it then I can atone

oh these days oh these days get heavy

I get older and life fades but you remain open up again I believe in second chances please let me in oh I believe in second chances I won't break you I will not let you down open up again I believe in second chances forgive me forgive me open up again I believe in second chances please let me in oh I believe in second chances I won't break you I will not let you down open up again I believe in second chances goodnight (x8)