

Impellitteri, Beware Of The Devil

Beware of the Devil

The devil looked into my eyes when I was seventeen

He said, "I'll give you all the world if you will follow me."

He dealt the cards, I drew the king

With this he was not pleased

And then he raised the stakes when he said to me: (I am the devil)

"I am the dealer I've come for your soul

Lay down your cards and I'll take control

I will bet your life if you dare to try, my friend,

The luck of the draw"

The dealer tried to conquer me

But I would not concede

Now everything he offered me was tempting to believe

I took a look inside my hand I saw the royalty

And then I called his bluff when he said to me: (I am the devil)

"I am the dealer I've come for your soul

Lay down your cards and I'll take control

I will bet your life if you dare to try, my friend,

The luck of the draw"

"I am the dealer I tell you no lies

Show me your cards and fate will decide

I will bet your life for eternity my friend

The winner takes all tonight"