Informatik, Watching You Watching Me so close the warmth between us grows the seeds are budding healthy the color of wanting more your body now what you are doing won't be forgotten and without warning your wish comes true watching you watching you watching you watching me i won't faint i won't break stop your doubting now and be your own true love your breaking down from your take on me i lose all once you know that other body won't see the morning i'll leave you lonely i'll leave you more watching waiting wanting needing